Introduction

This document is intended to help create strong passwords using the “Letter Pair” method introduced in the following article.

“How to remember a provably strong password: a new way using constrained choice”, Stephen Hewitt, July 2018

<http://www.cambridgeclarion.org/pw.html>

For information on how to use this document see the article.

This version of this list uses the “Y special” system of abbreviation defined in the article.

Key to the partition headings

For example in the heading “12;13 = A;B = 1”

12;13 The dice outcome

A;B The equivalent letter bead outcome

1 The position in the partition list, starting at 0

The {} brackets that follow contain the allowed abbreviations.
